1 single system for all ERP processes

Frontrunners in the Food Industry

Boasting over 150 years' experience in the food industry, SVZ strives to offer the highest quality in both production and supply. Its products include purees, juices, and concentrates made from freshly picked fruit and vegetables. Today more than ever, efficiency is as important as quality – as Corporate IT Manager at the company Ton Blok explains: “The world’s population is growing fast, and food production has to keep up.”

Yet SVZ’s fragmented IT landscape, which lacked integrated, standardized processes, was causing several issues. To improve its overall efficiency, the organization sought to gain control of these processes

The company decided that the best approach would be to migrate its fragmented systems over to a single, integrated ERP environment. Having assessed its options, SVZ felt that SAP ERP was the perfect fit – and the organization looked towards NTT DATA Business Solutions for support in implementing it. The IT service providers’ hands-on approach and open communication style helped influence SVZ’s decision. “We really appreciate the direct, open contact we had – and still have – with NTT DATA Business Solutions,” says Blok.

Well Planned and Well Executed

The project was completed on time and within budget. Blok describes it as a “great success,” adding that the entire team of consultants “cooperated perfectly throughout the implementation according to an intricately planned method.” This helped SVZ “transform from an organization working with fragmented, heterogeneous systems to one where a standard, SAP-oriented method is central.”

Integration Now. Innovation Forever.

The benefits of SVZ’s new, integrated system are numerous. Not only does it meet the fiscal requirements of all the countries in which the company operates, it also standardizes all processes across each of them. With the entire organization and all of its acquired companies employing the same working method, SVZ’s processes, such as the all-important quality control, are now more transparent than ever before.

In addition, the solution has also streamlined processes. Quotations, orders, planning, production, logistics, deliveries, and invoicing now require less manual effort. But it is not only internal processes that SVZ has been able to optimize; the company can now also anticipate customer and supplier demand and technological progress.

Furthermore, Blok claims that the integration “would have been more expensive and considerably more difficult without SAP and NTT DATA Business Solutions.” The organization’s IT manager is looking forward to further collaboration with the two parties: “Their leading role in technology aligns with our future strategy. Continuous innovation with their support can provide the solution for rapid global population growth.”
